

Public Integrity Bureau Annual Report

PIB shall include in its annual report a summary of each misconduct complaint, including a description of the allegation, the final approved disposition, and any discipline imposed. PIB's annual report shall also include aggregate misconduct data showing the number of each type of complaint and the number and rate of sustained cases after final approval, and shall provide an analysis of this data that identifies trends and concerns and documents NOPD's response to the identified trends and concerns. The PIB and IPM should coordinate and confer with each other in collecting, analyzing, and reporting this data to avoid or minimize duplication of efforts or resources. [Consent Decree ¶426]

The Public Integrity Bureau (PIB), commanded by Assistant Superintendent Arlinda Westbrook, is responsible for the fair and consistent implementation of the disciplinary process, from the receipt of a complaint through its final resolution. The includes the assignment and processing of all disciplinary investigations, review of recommendations in all disciplinary investigations and hearings, maintenance of disciplinary records, and the coordination of specific investigations with outside agencies such as the Federal Bureau of Investigations and the Independent Police Monitor.

All bureaus and divisions are included in the disciplinary process. Although officers assigned to PIB investigate all allegations of criminal misconduct against both police officers and civilian employees, the investigation of violation of administrative regulations are shared with first-line supervisors. In order to hold first-line supervisors accountable and ensure their involvement in complaints against their subordinates, many administrative complaints are forwarded to division commanders through their bureau chiefs for investigation. These investigations are reviewed through that bureau's chain of command, then ultimately by PIB and Superintendent of Police Michael Harrison.

The purpose of this report is to summarize misconduct complaint data collected for the past year, analyze that data, and identify trends and concerns in the areas of misconduct and discipline. The report includes: the number of sustained, not sustained, exonerated and unfounded complaints; the number of officers who were subjects of repeated misconduct complaints; the number of officers arrested for on-duty and off-duty conduct; the number of criminal prosecutions of officers; and the number and nature of civil suits filed against New Orleans police officers for work-related conduct. The report describes steps NOPD has taken to correct problems and to build on successes.

Relevant Policies

Chapter 52.1.1, “Misconduct Complaint Intake and Investigation,” became effective on July 19, 2015, replacing former Policy 1020. This new policy, which governs the NOPD’s investigation of misconduct complaints, was approved by the Office of the Consent Decree Monitor (OCDM) and the Department of Justice (DOJ), and it is fully compliant with the Consent Decree.

Policy 1021, “Disciplinary Hearings/Penalties” governs the procedure for conducting disciplinary hearings and determining appropriate penalties. However, it is scheduled to be replaced by Chapter 26.2, “Adjudication of Misconduct,” and Chapter 26.2.1, “Disciplinary Matrix” in mid-May. Both policies have been approved by OCDM and the DOJ.

Chapter 52.2, “Negotiated Settlement Agreements,” became effective November 15, 2015, replacing Policy 1023. The policy allows for resolution of misconduct complaints for minor violations reported by supervisors without a formal hearing. It was revised to allow for negotiated settlements involving body-worn camera violations. Policy 1025, “Community-Police Mediation,” which allows for mediation as an option in conflict resolution of citizen complaints, is currently under review and may be revised in collaboration with the Independent Police Monitor. Chapter 35.1.7, “Non-Disciplinary Employee Counseling for Minor Violations,” was converted to chapter format; it became effective May 10, 2015. That policy allow for counseling or training as resolution of minor violations or infractions.

The Complaint Process

The following flow chart describes the misconduct complaint process:

When anyone files a complaint against a New Orleans police officer, the Public Integrity Bureau of the New Orleans Police Department conducts an investigation. Upon receiving a complaint, the Public Integrity Bureau reviews, classifies, and processes the complaint. An investigator may contact the complainant and obtain a recorded statement. The investigator will ask the complainant to provide as much detailed information as possible regarding the incident.

The investigator will contact all available witnesses, including police officers, examine all relevant evidence, and gather all information pertinent to each allegation. If for any reason there is a lengthy delay in the investigation, the complainant will be notified as to when he or she can expect to receive the results. After all allegations have been fully investigated, the Superintendent of Police will determine what action, if any, should be taken to resolve the complaint.

The investigation may result in several outcomes, depending on the final disposition of the complaint. If the disposition is exonerated, unfounded, or not sustained, no disciplinary action will be taken. In all cases, the person who made the complaint will be notified in writing of the investigator’s findings.

When an allegation is sustained, the matter may proceed to a disciplinary hearing at which time a penalty will be recommended. The Superintendent of Police ultimately determines what penalty is appropriate. The penalty may range from a reprimand to suspension, fine, demotion, or dismissal from the department.

If the complaint includes allegations of criminal wrongdoing, a criminal investigation may be conducted in addition to any administrative investigation. The District Attorney may then be consulted regarding the filing of criminal charges and the possible arrest of the offending employee.

Misconduct complaint findings<sup>1</sup>

In 2015, the Public Integrity Bureau (PIB) processed 850 misconduct complaints, including 549 lodged by members of the public (65 percent) and 301 that were initiated by NOPD supervisors, i.e. officers who have the rank of sergeant or higher (35 percent). Of the rank-initiated complaints, 52 of them (17 percent) resulted in non-disciplinary counseling or training. The total number of complaints in 2015 is 2 percent lower than the total number of complaints in the previous year, 870. This decrease is not apparently related to access to the complaint process.

Origin of Complaints	2014	Origin of Complaints	2015
Citizen Initiated	654	Citizen Initiated	549
Rank Initiated	216	Rank Initiated	301
Total	870	Total	850

<sup>1</sup> All misconduct complaint data comes from the Public Integrity Bureau of the New Orleans Police Department and represents data from January 1, 2015 through December 31, 2015.

Analysis of these data reveals several encouraging trends. For example, the total number of complaints continues to decrease. In 2013, PIB received a total of 994 complaints; in 2015, it processed nearly 15 percent fewer complaints. The number and percentage of citizen complaints are also decreasing, from 654 in 2014 (75 percent of the year's total) to 549 in 2015 (65 percent of the total). This downward trend occurs at a time when the New Orleans Police Department has bolstered community awareness of the misconduct complaint process through stronger outreach. For example, informational placards have been posted at every district station and police facility open to the public during 2015. These placards notify citizens in three different languages (English, Spanish, and Vietnamese) how to make a complaint against a police officer or Department employee. The Department also created a detailed PowerPoint presentation for the public that explains the misconduct complaint process; the file is available on the NOPD Web site (visit <http://www.nola.gov/nopd/citizen-services/complaints/>).

Although several factors may have contributed to the downward trend, the Department believes fewer complaints suggests improved performance by NOPD officers in their law enforcement duties. The reforms and best practices implemented as a consequence of the federal Consent Decree have not only reaffirmed the Department's commitment to effective, constitutional policing, but are improving officers' relationship to the New Orleans community, including residents and non-residents.

Concomitant with the lowered percentage of complaints initiated by the public is an increased percentage of rank-initiated complaints. In 2014, the number of rank-initiated complaints was 216, or 25 percent of the year's total. In 2015, the number of rank-initiated complaints was 301, or 35 percent of the year's total. This increase is primarily attributable to the Department's intensified focus on discipline and accountability, as well as policy changes that resulted in more violations. For example, the Department implemented a strict disciplinary policy on body-worn cameras (BWC) that mandated suspension for failure to activate a BWC in certain situations, including any contact with citizens. Of the complaints processed by PIB in 2015, about 7 percent involved allegations of BWC non-use or misuse.

Although the Department is very focused on discipline, both as a function of command and as a means of public accountability, NOPD continues to explore alternatives to punishment in appropriate situations. For example, remedial training, redirection, and counseling can be an effective way to resolve minor administrative violations. In collaboration with the Independent Police Monitor, PIB attempted 43 police-community mediations in 2015, of which 23 were successfully mediated (20 were returned for investigation). In 2015, PIB recommended 18 cases for negotiated settlements, and 15 of those were successful. The settlement process, which is available only for rank-initiated complaints, is available for officers who agree not to contest the allegations against them.

The following summaries describe all of the misconduct complaints lodged against New Orleans police officers and police department employees through the Public Integrity Bureau in 2015. The complaint process of the New Orleans Police Department is allegation-driven, and all allegations are taken seriously and investigated thoroughly. However, until a complaint is proven, allegations contained in the complaint have not been verified and should not be read as statements of fact.

Additionally, a “sustained” disposition does not necessarily indicate that the complaint’s allegations have been proven. Misconduct complaints often contain multiple allegations, and a “sustained” disposition reflects the fact that at least one allegation was proven to be true by a preponderance of the evidence. In some cases, an investigator may discover additional allegations that are not contained in the original complaint; therefore, a case may be given a “sustained” disposition even when none of the complainant’s allegations are proven.

Finally, a complaint may be given a “sustained” disposition when an investigation is completed, but that disposition may change once the complaint is adjudicated during a disciplinary hearing. The disposition of a complaint is not considered final until after the disciplinary hearing is held and the Superintendent of Police has approved the disposition and discipline. Consequently, the disposition of cases for which the discipline is listed as “hearing pending” may ultimately be changed.

He then made an allegation to an NOPD officer that he was "raped" by the State Trooper. He defined being raped as him telling the Trooper that he didn't want to talk to him and the Trooper continued to try to talk to him "and that is rape." He then stated that the NOPD kidnapped him by taking him to University Hospital for a mental evaluation. He also alleged the hospital staff "raped him" by putting a needle in his arm. He said this is rape because his skin pores are an exit and they put the needle in his arm, "that's forcible rape." He then continued by alleging that his wrist was injured during the incident. He stated "the officer tried to break, I am not sure if it was the NOPD or University Police, I was in double custody at one time, but one of them tried to break my wrist.”
